FEARS CAPTURE OF THE CANAL.

Rear-Admiral Warns Nation of Blockade Danger.

Favors Perpetual Control of Caribbean Sea.

Stockton Urges Amendment to Monroe Doctrine.

BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.

CHICAGO—BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 26.—(Special Dispatch.)

REAR-ADMIRAL CHARLES H. STOCKTON, United States Navy, retired, outlined a plan for immediate action to protect the United States from the revolutionary nations in the South. Further delay, he said, puts Chicago and the Middle West in imminent danger of a blockade that would capture the Panama Canal from the country as soon as it is completed and gap this city of commercial strength to a degree from which it might never recover. As a precedent he points to the Suez Canal which was built at a large expense by France and was taken by England.

AMERICAN MEDITERRANEAN.

Appointment immediately by President-elect Wilson of a Board of Defense to take charge of a naval programme which will make the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea an American Mediterranean under full perpetual control of the United States was proposed as the first step in the programme.

The present lack of preparation, he said, is merely dazing tempting and unprotected plums before the mouths of European powers whose property and citizens are jeopardized by the present chaos in Mexico and the Central American countries.

The Board of Defense, he proposed, would consist of several members of the President's Cabinet, Congressmen and Representatives of the army and navy.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

Amendment of the Monroe doctrine to include only the territory north and west of the Orinoco River was the second radical step proposed as a necessity in protecting this country from disastrous consequences. The present Panamanian Canal is so far away that they do not great damage, he said, while they are big enough to enforce a Monroe doctrine of their own. Meanwhile, the main concern of the United States is to insure the Panama Canal for distribution to the northern revolutionaries.

"Think of the blockade and its effect upon the export trade of the United States culminating in Chicago, in the North, and New Orleans, the logical port to the canal in the South," he said. "We should be denied access to the canal and should be forced to the Pacific Ocean would be distinguished and the materials composing the foreign trade to New York would be rotting on the way with no exit at New York or the Atlantic ports."

SCHOOL CHILDREN SAVE THOUSANDS

Im Francisco Banking Plan Proves a Success.

One in Three Pupils Have Started Accounts.

Pennies, Nickels and Dimes Reach Large Sum.

BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES, SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—The school children of this city have handed up nearly a hundred thousand dollars cash since August 1, 1917.

The total of 9000 accounts of school children depositors opened since that date is $25,000, according to bank figures made public today. On that date the School Children's Savings Bank was inaugurated in all the schools of the city by the Board of Education.

There are over 40,000 pupils in the city's schools. Officials of the board estimate that one in every three regular attendees has opened an account. According to Senator James E. Fenton, who fathered the plan, it has proved more successful in San Francisco than in any other city of the United States. The age of the depositors ranges from 6 to 14 years. One who wants to go into the bank must be a minor and deposit the stamp purchased with their savings during the week. Collections are made in pennies, nickels and occasional dimes added by teachers during the week and by parents on weekends.

Each bank book is issued by the extent of the child's savings, providing fair selection of permanent officers.

ITEMENTS IN TEXAS.

Today is the second Foreign Relations at the Culberson and Chapman were present. Secretary of War MacClellan, Wood and that much of the work would be made easier as would issue a section against investors from Mexico. They would be placed in the border towns.

Each has bank book. These are turned over to the bank which provides the stamp later to be placed in the hands of the saving teller and credited to the depositor in the bank book which is the good possession of each depositor.

Deposits may be withdrawn at any time on an order signed by the parent or guardian of the depositor, but only $1 at a time. Interest at 4 per cent is paid on deposits and the children receive regular instruction suitable to their years in theory and practice.

In addition to the 9000 accounts already opened, 2300 children have bought stamps with which to open accounts when the required number has been acquired. The children are encouraged to save at least 100 of them enough to start an account.

AID TO FAMILIES.

Col. Power said the accounts, aside from their educational value, often were of practical benefit to depositing families. He instanced the case of a newsboy who had been in the habit of spending his money as fast as he earned it.

"All his schoolmates were saving money under this plan," said Col. Power, "and so he began. He soon had an account of $10. His resources were low and she needed medicine but could not afford it. The boy drew his money from the bank and it proved for his sick mother very well."

Col. Power declared he had received reports of many similar cases.

POSTAL RULES HAMPER SNOW.

BY HYGIENE LITERATURE IS BARRIED IN MAILED.

Secretary of State Board of Health says regulations interfere with dissemination of circulars intended for use in California's Education Campaign.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES, SACRAMENTO, Feb. 26.—Dr. W. E. Rose, secretary of the State Board of Health, finds that the postal rules prohibiting the use of mails to distribute hygiene advertisements is hampering the educational campaign of the Board of Health along a number of lines. Although the postal authorities have been lenient with the Board of Health since order went into effect, satisfactory arrangement has not yet been fully perfected. Dr. Rose says:

"The purpose is to permit legitimate educational printed matter to go through the mails and at the same time prevent the knavery of those who are on the afflited through their advertisements or the dissemination of vicious literature."

CONCEALED EQUITIES

Concealed equities in our various properties, constituting real values, the earnest of future dividends, increase the stability of HIBERNIAN HOME BUILDERS' shares.

Our property values have risen, both on account of actual building, important developments in their neighborhood and the general appreciation of Los Angeles real estate.

Our recent acquisition of holdings, where values are increasing and will be further enhanced by our operations, adds to our latent property equities.

Our business has a sound economic foundation and affords wide scope for profit.

Our directors are not unduly urging the sale of stock, but devoting their energies to the profitable employment of their shareholders' money.

Our capital, derived from a large number of small investors, is at work in the local field under careful and economical direction.

Put Your Liver To Work!

CONSTIPATION of the liver interferes with the action of the bowels. When the liver stops working and the bile accumulates your system becomes clogged with waste matter. Get that liver working right and all blemishes, headache, stomach trouble and constipation is avoided or disappears.

DON'T take a drug which drains you and makes you feel "as weak as a cat." Two wrongs do not make a right. Take a mild, natural laxative which gently stimulates and effectively operates.

HUNYADI JANOS WATER, a NATURAL remedy, acts within one hour or so after taking an empty stomach— $\frac{1}{2}$  glassful puts your liver to work. Get a bottle at any drug store to-day.

OXFORD (O. Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the annual senior day celebration at Western College, Oxford, the second largest senior class in the history of the institution, numbering thirty-six, made its initial bow in the coveted cap and gown at the chapel exercises. Frank Saurier, former educator and writer, spoke on "Education in Relation to Democracy and Necessity."

A banquet was given in Peabody Hall. Miss Arima Woodhall of Los Angeles, president of the class of 1912, presided in a delightful manner.

The unique scheme of toasts arranged in compliment to Edgar Stillman-Keller, who is at present a member of the college faculty at Western, made up the parts of a "symphony."

WISCONSIN FREEZING.

In fact, several points in Wisconsin and Michigan have already experienced quite a drop in temperature.

Green Bay, Wisc., and Marquette, Mich., reported drops of twelve degrees in a few hours. At Minneapolis, Minn., tonight the thermometer stands 34 below, which is a drop of 24 degrees from the highest point of the day, the Canadians sweltering with the mercury standing at only 18 below.

Farmers of the winter wheat States welcomed the snow on account of the winter wheat crop. In some sections the wheat was reported without snow covering and a severe drop in temperature without protection would have meant disaster for the crop, which will be harvested early next July.

In Chicago two persons were reported injured as a result of the snow-storm. Mrs. Ida Barnett fell on the street near her home, fracturing her left leg, and Arthur McCormick fell in the winter district and was rendered unconscious when his head struck against a building.

DEVIL'S LAKE COLDEST.

Snow was reported today from the States of New York, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, Utah and all Canadian points. The coldest spot in the United States was Devil's Lake, N. D., where the mercury fell to 32 below.

Havre, Mont., took second honors with a temperature of 33 below, while 14 below was reported at Duluth, Minn., 13 below at Moorhead, Minn., and 2 below at Helena, Mont. For the Canadian points Minnedosa reported 24 below and Battisford 30 below.

With this intense cold prevailing in the Northwest, says the Weather Bureau, the wind probably will shift to this direction tomorrow and the temperature of the central and eastern States is due to take a big drop.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES)

EXPECT COLD WEATHER.

The Weather Bureau tonight, however, reported that the wind, which was from the south today, would turn to the north to-night and probably bring with it a sample of the cold weather now prevailing in the Dakotas, Montana and Canada.

The snow-storm is scheduled to last until some time tomorrow and, to insure that the cold weather will continue, the railroad men fear a repetition of the blockade of about a year ago when thousands of dollars were paid out for labor in an endeavor to clear the tracks in snowdrifts.

So far this month the Weather Bureau reports an excess of temperature of 178 degrees. This will be cut down greatly in the next two days, however, and March is scheduled to come in like a lion.

Strange Story's End.

DEATH WITHERS
BRIDAL WREATH.

Mrs. Lugo-Leon Passes Into Eternal Silence.

Hundred and Five Years Old;
Five Days Wedded.

Aged Bridegroom to Receive Entire Fortune.

In the room where she was married only last Friday, the dim light of seven candles shone yesterday on the placid face of Mrs. Marselline Lugo-Leon. Death, long delayed, came at last to the woman of 105 years and in an hour when the footfall's sound of the departing wedding guests had scarcely vanished.

Picentino Leon, 80 years old, stood trembling by the side of the ancient figure in bed yesterday afternoon and told of the death of his wife. He said that the end came at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. It had seemed to her earlier in the evening that the folds of the dark curtain were parting and she had asked for her rosary. "I will not see the morning," she whispered.

Leon summoned several of the neighbor women and they and he sat by the bedside. They did not speak, except that the women murmured that the woman was dead. The house outside was quiet except for the straggling Mexicans who had come from the Plaza. When almost everybody in the city except the up-all-night crowd were asleep the watchers were still at the old fashioned window.

At 1 o'clock she faintly spoke the one word, "water." One of the women started from her chair, but Leon motioned her back. It was the old man's wish that he might go for it himself. Leon brought the glass in an unsteady hand and lifted the head from the pillow. Leon said yesterday with tears that he was glad that he went for the water. Often in the last fifty years he has done her bidding. Leon repeated that he was very, very weak and that he could go for a cup of cold water."

When Mrs. Lugo and Leon were married five days ago her shoulders were adorned with a little gray shawl. The shawl was around her head and tied under her chin as she lay on the death bed. A few moments before the end she reached up with steady hands and untied the knot at her throat, but the breath came no more.

Leon says that at 2 o'clock his wife raised up on her elbow and tried to speak to them, and failing, motioned them to come nearer. They gathered around the bed. There was a look of fear in the eyes of Leon at them and then the heavy lids closed forever over the eyes that had

SEES BRUTAL HOLD-UP.

Highwaymen Run on Approach of Special Officer Who Arrives Too Late to Help Victim.

E. P. Dowell, a special officer for the Southern Pacific, was a witness to a brutal hold-up. Since about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, but was unable to make an arrest for the two highwaymen and their victim ran at his approach. When Dowell first saw the trio one of the highwaymen was beating their victim while the other was rifling his pockets.

Robert Mers, No. 513 East Thirty-third Street, came home late Tuesday night when he was accosted at Jefferson and Trinity by a man who called to him:

"Nothing doing," replied Mers, who ran. The highwayman quickly gave up the chase.

In a train wreck caused by a washout on the Southern Pacific's Oxnard branch at Kester siding yesterday, engine No. 1654 turned over and was half-buried under five feet of mud and water. Engineer Charles Hammond of No. 2606 Darwin street, was almost drowned. Fireman J. P. Berry of No. 219 East Ann street, became a hero, and traffic was obstructed for hours.

Hammond and Berry, in the locomotive, had an almost miraculous escape from death and the fireman's bravery saved the engineer's life. Hammond, valiantly remaining at his throttle, was buried under the flood and was turned over, imprisoning him. Berry leaped.

Hurting into the water the 73-ton train instantly sank to its smokestack. Berry dove through the hissing steam and pulled Hammond out of the driver's cab just as the engineer, weak from his struggle, had become exhausted.

The train was carrying fourteen cars and was en route from Oxnard to Kester siding, about two miles west of Lankershim, had just been reached. For miles the track had been flooded by the heavy rain storm. At Kester siding the rails rest on an embankment considerably above ground level.

Water had undermined the rails. Hammond had throttled down the train and it was traveling at a cautious rate of speed. Danger of washout was apparent from the condition of the tracks for miles along the line.

The engine suddenly quivered as it struck the washout, rails were torn and plunged over the edge, carrying Hammond and the car behind with it and blocking the tracks with those following. As the car swayed Berry had jumped. Had he not been free he and Hammond might have perished. Track for yards was torn up.

The few passengers on the train, chiefly freight, were thrown together in a heap. According to railroad officials, the train was moving at the time they had run into the washout and reached the overturned engine.

The few passengers on the train, chiefly freight, were thrown together in a heap. According to railroad officials, the train was moving at the time they had run into the washout and reached the overturned engine.

Berry was dragging Hammond from the cab.

Conductor Best immediately got in communication with the chief dispatcher's office in Los Angeles. Orders were issued to rush a wrecking crew to the scene. The 73-ton engine was the weight of the wrecking train and its weight prevented them from turning near enough to the engine to right it. This will be done today.

Engineer Hammond is in some danger, losing his hearing, water having affected his ears. He declined to discuss the wreck last night, passing the story to officials of the company for narration. Telephone calls from persons who had relatives on board were numerous. The Southern Pacific, the company which owned the engine, decided to pay the expenses of the man who had been injured.

In the suit of the Southern Construction Company against Jessie A. Howells the judgment of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county and Judge T. L. Lewis in favor of the defendant was affirmed. The defendant was the widow of the late Bernard J. Broads, in the action brought by George R. Mead and Walter J. Crook to recover damages on account of loss of wages. The court held that the widow was entitled to $100,000 for the services of her husband in the defense of the suit.

Judge Monroe, in his opinion, held that the widow was entitled to $100,000 for the services of her husband in the defense of the suit.

On the resignation of Elwin Widney, the young attorney who had conducted the defense of the widow, the court held that the widow was entitled to $100,000 for the services of her husband in the defense of the suit.

—Not every piece of land will raise apples—apples pay bigger returns than any other crop—water, soil and climate in a combination hard to find in California are essential and we have them all.

—Los Angeles alone consumes seven times the apples raised in all California, and pays highest prices. The Salt Lake Railroad alone shipped 300 cars into Los Angeles in one month. You can make big money at Yucaipa—investigate today.

Past 40—and on the bum

If you're a close observer, not a day goes by that you don't hear some man who has rounded the forty-year mark say: "I have got to 'cut out' strong cigars or quit smoking"—and where's the man who is willing to give up the pleasure and comfort of his cigar?

It's not necessary—

neither do you have to smoke a poor cigar—if you will select one built right to meet the demands of quality and taste. We are proud to offer and are building our reputation on a cigar that is a real mild Havana; for

J. M. Shaw, on Stand, Declares
Governments' Chief Witness in Sand Sui Hearing Did Not Point
Out Elk Hills Territory to Dumble and Produces Letters—Other Data

That it would be physically impossible for a witness to be in two places at the same time, was the contention sought to be established at the hearing yesterday before Special Examiner Leo Longley, of the suit brought by the government against the Southern Pacific, to have declared invalid patents issued to the road by the government in the Elk Hills under the provisions of an agricultural land grant, the claim being that it is oil land.

The witness, yesterday, was in the oil fields of California and oil contracts signed by T. J. Griffin, covering practically every day that he was in the employ of the Rio Bravo Oil Company.

poration that has for some years been engaged in oil exploitation at Welch, La., Sour Lake, and Staroga, Tex., was again the witness, and the entire day was taken up with his testimony in chief and cross-examination.

Shaw was brought here to destroy the legend that he had been a spy for the defendant, who was but 22 years of age at the time, while he was 60; that the defendant's first marriage was contracted November 23, 1902, and that her husband was killed April 19, 1904; that she was married a second time September 1, 1910, and divorced from her husband, Dumble, June 5, 1904; that she married Gleason June 3, 1907, having known him but six months before the ceremony.

It was shown by the evidence that Gleason's first wife died less than a year after their marriage, he having married the defendant, who was but 22 years of age at the time, while he was 60; that the defendant's first marriage was contracted November 23, 1902, and that her husband was killed April 19, 1904; that she was married a second time September 1, 1910, and divorced from her husband, Dumble, June 5, 1904; that she married Gleason June 3, 1907, having known him but six months before the ceremony.

It was also shown by the testimony of a witness that in his opinion several months ago, and he testified that while in the employ of the Texas company, he had made a trip through the Elk Hills country, with E. T. Dumble, at that time vice-president and general manager of the Rio Bravo Oil Company, and now consulting engineer of the Southern Pacific.

Griffin had told Dumble that in his opinion the Elk Hills was oil territory. He had given this view as an oil expert. He also declared that maps had been furnished him by the Rio Bravo Oil Company, showing that the Elk Hills was good oil land.

pany, so that it would have been physically impossible for him to have been through the Elk Hills country at the time that he said he was. He was a mechanical engineer with the oil company and his entire period of service, day by day, was shown by the memoranda along the line mentioned. The witness Shaw also denied that Griffin had been furnished a map of the Elk Hills country by his company for any purpose. It was estimated that Griffin could not have made the trip to San Francisco with Dumble as alleged, in less than eight days from Houston, or Welsh, where he was at work, and there was no such period not covered by the written evidence furnished in behalf of the government.

"Definitions of res gestae are as numerous as prescriptions for the cure of rheumatism and generally about as useful," is the cryptic declaration of the Supreme Court of California, in affirming the judgment of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county that the widow, Mrs. Dumble, in favor of the defendant in the action brought by Lida E. Corbin against Eva Mildred Gleason, to set aside the will of Henry E. Gleason, brother of the plaintiff.

Gleason left an estate valued at $40,000, and the plaintiff was bequeathed but $10, the balance of the estate to his wife. It was alleged that at the time Gleason made the will in favor of his wife, she was mentally and physically unsound, that he was in bodily fear of his wife, and unduly influenced by her.

It was shown by the evidence that Gleason's first wife died less than a year after their marriage, he having married the defendant, who was but 22 years of age at the time, while he was 60; that the defendant's first marriage was contracted November 23, 1902, and that her husband was killed April 19, 1904; that she was married a second time September 1, 1910, and divorced from her husband, Dumble, June 5, 1904; that she married Gleason June 3, 1907, having known him but six months before the ceremony.

The Bribery Trial.

HUSBAND AND WIFE TESTIFY.

Darrow and Mrs. Darrow Both in His Behalf.

He Denies That He Showed Harrington Money.

Defendant to Be on Stand All Day Today.

With both Clarence Darrow and his wife appearing as witnesses in the bribery trial yesterday, the most interesting developments of the session were brought out. Mrs. Darrow, Helen Weston of San Francisco, Edith Holden, Mrs. Holden, a widow of a bride from this city, Miss Anna Elbert of Sacramento, were dainty in pink charmeuse and in Dresden chiffon with lace effect of shadow lace and lace and ruffles, and some slimming. One was the maid of honor, Princess Lee, Jr., and Mrs. Munson. The best man was Edward Murphy.

The ushers were followed by the bride, Mrs. Thomas Darrow, who was handsome in pink muslin and chiffon, decorated with Princess Lee, Jr., and Mrs. Munson. Next came the maid of honor, Marjorie Stanton of San Francisco. Helen Weston of San Francisco, Edith Holden, Mrs. Holden, a widow of a bride from this city, Miss Anna Elbert of Sacramento, were dainty in pink charmeuse and in Dresden chiffon with lace effect of shadow lace and lace and ruffles, and some slimming. One was the maid of honor, Princess Lee, Jr., and Mrs. Munson. The best man was Edward Murphy.

The maid-of-honor, Dorothy, was the most dainty and slimming of the bride's maid, the bride, radiant in a lovely creation of pink tulle and lace in effect. These fell to the waist were completed at the top with pink roses. Mrs. Darrow was positive that she would have seen it if her husband had exhibited any bills and she declared he made no remarks about "reaching" jurors.

Mrs. Darrow described the location of the house, its exposed position in this morning and undoubtedly be on the stand all day.

Mrs. Darrow told how Harrington and his young daughter visited at their home on North Bonnie Brae street.

"He came shortly before Christmas and said he was here. He said it seemed too bad to be away from home at the holiday season, but was glad he could be with us. He told me that he did not know of any reason for being subpoenaed before the Federal grand jury and said that there was nothing against Mr. Darrow that could get him into trouble."

Mrs. Darrow said that on the evening in September when Harrington said he talked with Darrow and that he told her to meet him and the other defense lawyers at the office of ex-Gov. Gage.

However, it is apparent that the defense now takes the position that Gage was personally retained by Darrow in connection with the alleged attempt to swindle G. P. Friend, said yesterday that he would apply to the Appellate Court today for a writ of habeas corpus, in an effort to have his client's bail reduced. His contention will be that the bail fixed by Justice Reeve is excessive and made for the express purpose of keeping Rial in jail, something not contemplated by the law.

Gage was not cross-examined.

ENGLISH EXPERT LECTURES.

Ewart G. Culpin, secretary of the Garden City and Town Planning Association of Great Britain, delivered an interesting lecture in the Polytechnic High School auditorium last night, illustrated with a large number of lantern slides, covering the work of the association in Germany and in and around London. The lecture was to be delivered before the City Club, but the club forced the appointment, with the exception of a meager number.

Culpin is one of the most entertaining talkers upon this particular subject that it has been the fortune of Los Angeles to entertain. In speaking of elections, do you know,

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer that it has cost you nearly $250,000 during the past sixteen months for city elections?

EXTRAORDINARY.

Mexico has had the same President for a week. That must be a very monotonous situation for its citizens.

SOMETHING TO PONDER.

If the Jones-Worke excise law stops the sale of liquor at every club in Washington, D. C., will it interfere with the relish for dry wit among the members of the Gridiron Club?

QUITE SIMILAR.
A distinguished Republican of New Hampshire predicts that the Democrats will split on vital issues and patronage during the Wilson administration. This is a distinction without a difference, since patronage is certainly the vital issue with the Unwashed.

DINTY GRAFTERS.

We are glad to see the gold brick men of every kind being exposed in Los Angeles, and we hope that the present campaign against their operations will result in their elimination. If that could be extended to the bungo artists in the State capital at Sacramento we should be happier.

TWO TO BLAME.

Wherever a man is swindled two are usually to blame. The one who is victimized is often led to his misfortune through his own culpability. The willingness to get something valuable for less than it is worth is a sort of consent to theft and is obliged to react on one who is thus inspired to seek a point of advantage.

GRAVE QUESTION.

A Society and not the police are the murderers of inebriates whose skulls are crushed by falling upon the floors of steel tanks. Already the doors of the asylum are open to those of diseased wills, and perhaps the day will come when other hospitals will be provided for them. It may be that open-air farms for inebriates will help solve the problem of their misfortune.

A REAL GOVERNOR.

California is, of course, greater than Texas in all respects save in the size of its territory and its Governor. The executive of California wants to abolish the militia, while the Texas chief is asking the Legislature for permission to increase the militia and its budget to any size necessary to completely patrol the border whenever occasion seems to demand. A comparison of the two men is not flattering to our great State.

AN ANCIENT FLAVOR.

Very pleasant is it to note that the Methodist brethren of Huntington Park will within a few days give a house raising for their pastor and that their wives will cook them an old-fashioned, log-rolling dinner. The new parsonage will be built out of rare good will at small expense to the congregation and in an atmosphere of delightful social cheer. It is not often in a city the size of Los Angeles or in one of its suburbs that these old-fashioned events occur. Certainly the custom is truly American.

AMERICA AND FRANCE.

Which of all the nations in the world stand today most solidly for universal peace? America and France. Of this there can be no doubt. The two republics have many points of general resemblance, many tastes in common. But in one important respect they are pursuing directly opposite tactics. To insure this universal peace France is increasing her military forces; with the same avowed object we are proposing to diminish ours. France no doubt has much to learn from us, but we perhaps have something to we may learn from our sister republic.

FUNNY ORGANIZATION.

This business of a Los Angeles Club has us guessing. You see, after the first meeting the members all have the acquaintance of one another and are no longer lonely. The only way such an organization can stick to its text is to have an entirely new membership at every meeting. If there ever was a place where acquaintance is easy it is Los Angeles. Friendships are made and sealed by common aims and interests, and a man could hardly have a hobby which is not represented by some association in this city. Whether he loves work or play, sport or science, he can always find somewhere within the confines of Los Angeles, a gathering of his kind.

DUNSTON.

We often hear men dismissed with a shrug of the shoulders or a disdainful smile as being not worth the serious consideration of men and women who are earnest about life. This severe judgment, while sad, is often earned. The world is ready to forgive a man anything as long as he tries. It makes very little difference to people what a man is striving for as long as he has some goal in view and tries to live according to principles in following it. The one thing that makes the world more habitable for every day of its age is that an increasing number of persons are constantly applying themselves in good faith to some purpose which to them seems worth while and which is often the soundest and the best end of which they can conceive.

CALL IT OFF.
Soon after the great freeze The Times suggested that the best way for the railroads to help the citrus fruit growers would be to call off their appeal in the dollar-rate case and distribute to lemon shippers the $375,000 in cash freight charges paid in excess of $1. When the rate became a subject of litigation it was agreed to place in escrow all sums over what a $1 rate would amount to and hold them till the rate was decided. It is said these sums, in the vaults of a security company, now amount to $375,000.

We believe that it would be the part of wisdom for the railroads to drop the fight, now that the United States Commerce Court has decided against them. They might carry it into the United States Supreme Court, by means of a new appeal; but we think they would be foolish to do so. Let them accept the situation with good grace, abide by the dollar rate and release for distribution to the ratepayers the $375,000 excess charges now held up. The money would be a godsend to many a lemon grower; it would be a stimulus to a great industry when a stimulus is needed; the railroads would thrive from it in the end.

The citrus men have apparently won "for keeps" a three years' battle and the victory will put millions in their pockets. The difference between a rate of $1 per cwt. and $1.15 certainly means millions in time to come. It is most cheerful news and comes at a most opportune time. We predict that the $1 rate will not be disturbed by any process of law; that the ruling of the Commerce Court will not be attacked.

TWENTY MILLION DOLLAR DEFICIT.
According to the report of State Controller A. B. Nye the aggregate appropriations which the fortieth Legislature is asked to vote for new devices and for the maintenance and tinkering of the government and its institutions for the two years ending June 30, 1915, is $27,407,934, which, added to the expenditures which do not require legislation, will make the total expenditures $48,809,336.

The gross receipts of the State for the same period, including the increased revenue from corporations, will aggregate $28,928,194. There will be a deficit of $19,871,192, which will result if the special appropriations of $25,407,932 asked for shall be granted. Strike these special appropriations out and there will be a surplus of $5,530,336. Leave them in and there will be a deficit of nearly $20,000,000.

But what is $20,000,000 among Progressives? What is $20,000,000 when you consider the moral uplift that Progressivism has given Toopious? The halo with which it has encircled the brow of Holy Hiram? The perpetual motion it has imparted to the lower jaw of Chattering Chet? The withdrawal from pawnbroker practices it has added to the oratory of Gates Ajar? What taxpayer will be so sordid, so absolutely mean as to begrudge the payment of his share of $20,000,000 when he reflects upon the good it will do, of the happiness it will aid to diffuse?

He will not mind paying his taxes when he thinks of Gates Ajar eating soap and bunking at the public cost; of the labor of the imported expert who will see that only pure paint is placed upon houses; of the pensioned old boys who will, as they swallow their ante-prandial cocktails, bless Assemblies Farwell; of the compensated pressmen compelling Toopious to write decent English for a change; of the kitchen boiler inspectors rigidly excluding inexpensive boiled rice and demanding the employment of a five-dollar plumber to stop a ten-cent leak; of the Happy Hooligan company of highly-salaried inspectors and commissioners strutting along the streets of London and Paris and Berlin or esconced in aristocratic clubhouses, there instructing princes and barons in the art of turning a jester from the bottom of the pack.

What is $20,000,000 compared to the benefit that tolling taxpaying people will derive from knowing that eating ice cream and chocolate caromels on the Lord's day between 9 o'clock a.m. and 1 p.m. will fill the County Jail to overflowing with women and children, and that manacles await the law-defying druggist who vends a dose of castor oil on Sunday before 1 p.m.?

How will the exultant and non-uxorious husband rejoice when he can say to his disobedient wife, "It will cost me a share of $20,000,000, my darling, to send you to jail for thirty days for wiping the dining table with a piece of your old petticoat which you wickedly neglected to boil in a solution containing 5 per cent. of caustic soda?"

Dickens, in one of his novels, makes Wilkins Micawber say, "Income twenty pounds, expenditures nineteen pounds, nineteen shillings and sixpence—result, happiness. Income twenty pounds, expenditures twenty pounds and sixpence—result, misery."

Those ideas of the great English novelist may have been all right in the last century, but we have "progressed." Our motto in the glorious climate of California will be, if Holy Hiram's Legislature passes pending bills, "Income $28,928,194, expenditure $48,809,336." Result, the serene joy of a $19,871,192 deficit. Who cares for a bagatelle like that?

THROTTLING THE NEWSPAPERS.
Not satisfied with its control of and depredations upon $4,000,000 of the hand laborers of the country the American Federation of Labor, dominated by the cockney convict Gompers, is proposing to control the writers for public journals as well.

There was on January 19 a strike in New York in the four Jewish newspapers of that city—the Warheit, the Forward, the Jewish Morning Journal and the Jewish Daily News. "A certain number of reporters, special writers and editorial writers on these journals suddenly made known to the respective managements the existence of their unions and 'walked out' upon being denied their claims. The reporters demanded a five-hour day. They promised, 'We will be absolutely impossible to apply to a writers' union the principles and practices which prevail in a union of mechanical laborers. A bricklayers' union may limit the number of brick that its members may lay in eight hours. A carpenters' union may prescribe the number of shingles that its members may nail to the roof in an hour. A plasterers' union may fix the number of square yards of plaster that

"HE CERTAINLY WAS GOOD TO ME!"

DEAR, DELIGHTFUL LOS ANGELES.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

In the current number of the Smart Set W. Huntington Wright has an amusing article on Los Angeles. With a lavish discharge of telling phrases and piquant epigrams, with perfect torrent of lovely long words that many of us never met before, and with all the gladsome inexperience and bigotry of youth, the Quaker pours forth his wit in scathing criticism of our dear, delightful Los Angeles.

Personally I am entirely sympathetic with him as a fellow-scribbler. If I had thought of all those bright, naughty phrases and those deliciously shocking utterances I, too, should have been tempted to work them out of my system. But should I have shown up all my own funny little provincialisms, my own immature admiration of timeworn worldliness, my own youthful bigotry and, alas, my own amusing inexperience in the same way that young Willard has done?

I am a bit of a traveler myself and have lived—lived, not stayed—in many of the world's big cities—London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, Brussels, Lisbon, Buenos Ayres, Cape Town and Kimberley and have paid long visits to Cairo, Bombay, the Canary Islands, St. Helena, many parts of Africa, including Pretoria, Bulawayo, Bloemfontein, Johannesburg, Port Elizabeth and Durban. So I do sort of feel that I know a city when I see one, "don't you know?"

There's our dear Willard (I may be maligning him, of course) don't give out the impression throughout that laboriously slashing article—for that is what it is—on Los Angeles, that he has made one or two frightfully exciting, but sadly brief, visits to San Francisco and New York and found himself utterly dazzled by the naughty worldliness he found there.

He accuses Los Angeles of believing that "there is something inherently and inalienably indecent in that segment of the day between 12 p.m. and 5 a.m." But when the dear boy goes to London or his much-quoted Paris he will find that exactly the same creed reigns there. That, although the London and Parisian villagers keep up the racket throughout the night to a greater extent than Los Angeles, those that participate feel, like Willard, that they are regular dogs, "don't you know?" and that the rest of the city is too disreputably respectable for words.

The fact that Los Angeles does not find this sort of thing irresistibly alluring is because she has grown up more quickly than Willard, and is wise beyond her years. She knows that a little of that sort of thing is amusing occasionally, and does not actually harm, but that, in a general way, life has more to offer in the daylight and the sunshine if one is normal and healthy.

His slam at our women's culture clubs is a subject I have a weakness for satirizing myself, but, bless the boy, that sort of thing is not peculiar to Los Angeles. On the contrary, Henri Bergson and his philosophic conferees began their conquest of society in Paris and marched on the United States via London. Most of those dreadful literary and drama society ideas and that tremendously advanced reading for the female mind, found its inception in gay and frivolous Paris ten years ago.

Willard, president of the Ethical Society of Los Angeles six years ago, was eagerly awaiting to hear his philosophical lectures at the Ethical Society's quarters on Plaza, Soul Construction Nietzsche, Bernard Shaw and Galsworthy. And as for Henri Bergson (a bright philosopher with a keen business instinct) why, he had Clarendon's Piccadilly, crowded for weeks on end with the leading professors.

In spite of objections—probably from her mother—Tetrazzini succeeded in obtaining a position in a grand opera company, the prettiest kind of musical gift. # Yesterday at The Times School of Domestic Science

Conducted by
Mrs. Bertha Haffner-Ginger.

FOR THE WOMEN.

Open House and Free Lessons on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

At 2:30 p.m., second floor New Times Building, First and Broadway.

FULLY 500 women crowded The Times auditorium yesterday afternoon to listen to Mrs. Haffner-Ginger's clever cooking composition and demonstration. The women had early; they brought their children and their crocheting and their embroidery, and their fingers flew while they waited for the hour to arrive when those blue curtains would disclose that model kitchen and the white-robed cook lady with her capable maid in her spick and span pink frock with its dainty white apron. When that happened the needlework was quickly laid aside.

Some of them were there on Monday—and they remembered all about that puff paste that had been made to put away on ice to be baked in delicate puffs and wafer—at yesterday's demonstration. Others had read about it in The Times and were on hand to learn how to make these delightful adjuncts to a dainty meal.

Cold Paste; Hot Oven.

"You remember, ladies," began the instructor, "I told you the other day that when we made this puff paste that after it had been on ice it ought to be put away on ice to be baked in delicate puffs and wafer—at yesterday's demonstration. Others had read about it in The Times and were on hand to learn how to make these delightful adjuncts to a dainty meal.

After that she made patty shells, and she wound strips of the paste on the cylinder, making those long tubes like shells. Then you have to do so much for at the high-class cake shop—the kind that you can fill with whipped cream or custard—and when all these things were baked they were passed through the audience—but they didn't get to the rear rows. Noting short of a miracle seemed to feed such a multitude—unless the cook cooked all day in anticipation of the crowd.

She cautioned the women to cut off but a small piece at a time and immediately return the balance to the refrigerator, for one secret of perfect puff paste is a cold dough baked in a hot oven.

She rolled out the piece of paste till it was about an eighth of an inch thick, sprinkled it with Parmesan cheese, peppered it with sausages and paprika and with a cunning little pastry cutter that scalloped the edges to define it into long, slim strips for the cylinder, making those long tubes like shells. Then you have to do so much for at the high-class cake shop—the kind that you can fill with whipped cream or custard—and when all these things were baked they were passed through the audience—but they didn't get to the rear rows. Noting short of a miracle seemed to feed such a multitude—unless the cook cooked all day in anticipation of the crowd.

Rain of Rolling Pins.

The arrival of the rolling pin caused great excitement. That has been the one thing lacking in the perfect equipment of that kitchen. But it gave Mrs. Haffner-Ginger an opportunity to show how she could rise to meet an emergency, for she had been using a big black vinegar bottle for a rolling pin for several days to the amusement of the audience, always announcing that she expected the rolling pin by the next delivery. So when the maid brought in the long-looked-for glass rolling pin, a wave of applause swept over the crowd which increased to a roar when, about two minutes later, another rolling pin—this one dainty blue and white porcelain affair that exactly matches the kitchen fixings.

Having been spurred on by repeated calls from the cook lady the rolling pin when they began to arrive came in pairs.

Store Needs Adjusting.

"This store does not work just right," observed the cook lady, as she opened the oven door. "I have had it adjusted three times and still the oven burners are not right."

"Whoever manufactured that stove better fix it," murmured a woman in the front row. "If he values his reputation."

Because the oven refused to work just right, the biscuits required twice the length of time they should in the baking.

Dixie Biscuits and Drop Dumplings.

After the puff paste was made up, Mrs. Haffner-Ginger read a letter from a Santa Monica woman who wrote that, while circumstances are such that she cannot come to the lectures and demonstrations, she is intensely interested in the Times School of Domestic Science and carts out her car to attend the afternoon class there.

"I am adding an egg makes it Dixie biscuits," wrote the difference.

Here's the recipe:

Haking Powder Biscuits: Measure four cups pastry flour after sifting; add two rounding teaspoons baking powder (she used Ben Hur); one teaspoon salt; sift all together; add one heaping tablespoon lard, size of a large egg; stir right through four until perfectly smooth; measure one and one-half cups of sweet milk; pour in slowly, mixing with spoon; when mixed, sprinkle flour with sieve on board; roll dough lightly in flour with rolling pin; cut in squares; flatten out with rolling pin one-fourth of an inch thick; cut with cutter size of a dollar; bake in quick oven; must bake between five and seven minutes—longer will make them heavy.

This same biscuit dough will make the good, old-fashioned dropped dumplings and adding a whole egg to the milk makes them

School Kitchen to Open.

The first special class in cooking will open this evening in the kitchen of the school, which has been fitted up for the use of the majority of the students.

For an evening class there will be no charge.

Many things will be taught.

For instance, soups

LOSES DIVORCE.

Woman Minus Precious Document Is Disconsolate on Eve of Her Second Marriage.

Mrs. Gen. C. Chandler told Central Station detectives yesterday that she is the other disconsolate woman in Los Angeles because she was robbed while in a South Broadway department store of a gold pocketbook containing her recently second decree of divorce and a photograph of a naval officer whom she had come to Los Angeles to marry. Mrs. Chandler is staying at No. 404½ Crocker street.

When she secured her divorce in San Francisco last week, the first thing Mrs. Chandler did, so she told the detectives, was to buy a gold pocketbook for $56. In one compartment she placed her final decree of divorce, and in the other a photograph of the officer, whose name of ship the woman refused to give. This pocketbook Mrs. Chandler said she carried in a beaded hand-book. It was from the latter Mrs. Chandler says the pocketbook was stolen. The police are looking for a negro who is

CHARGED WITH CHARGES.

Man Escorted From Imperial by Constable Is Immersed in Court Trials—Blew Whistle.

Local charges piled up so high and unexpectedly yesterday against T. C. Clapper, returned from Imperial by Constable Hayes, that he hardly knew what had happened to him when it was over. He had just stood trial, Hayes said, on a white slavery charge, from which he was freed by a hung jury, when he was arrested on a charge of having passed fictitious checks. On his arrival here it was learned that a complaint was filed against him for perjury, accusing him of failure to provide for his wife and family is pending.

Justice Forbes will hear the bogus check case Tuesday, and Justice Summerville the other on Wednesday. He was unable to give bond on either charge and went to the County Jail.

WANTS GOVERNMENT AID.

A pauper affidavit in behalf of Mrs. Luba of Rome, Cosmilia India, charged with complicity in the murder of Supervisor defendant William H. Stanier, was filed yesterday in the United States District Court. Luba declares he has no money and desires the government to assume the expense of summoning witnesses to name him in his behalf. She describes the missing man as 30 years of age, about five feet ten and a half inches tall and weight 200 pounds. He had dark hair and blue eyes.

FEARS FOUL PLAY.

Mrs. Wallace Believes Man Buried in Potter's Field Is Son Who Had Money.

Mrs. M. R. Wallace of No. 125 Fourth street fears foul play in connection with the disappearance of her son, Elmer Wallace, a cook, who disappeared a week before the body of a man was taken from the lake at Westlake Park.

Mrs. Wallace says her son's description tallies with that of the drowned man. She says she is positive he had $200 in cash on his person at the time of his disappearance. She describes the missing man as 30 years of age, about five feet ten and a half inches tall and weight 200 pounds. He had dark hair and blue eyes.

SUSPENDERS HIMSELF.

Elderly Man Tired of Life Tries to Commit Suicide, But Chambermaid Cuts Him Down.

Claudius Peters, 60 years old, attempted to commit suicide by hanging himself in his room at the Hotel Traver, No. 539 East Fifth street, yesterday, but was rescued by Mrs. Minnie Lightfoot, a maid, who had left her few personal belongings. Peters was sent to the Receiving Hospital by Dr. G. E. Brown, who first attended him. He may recover.

When Mrs. Lightfoot, the chambermaid, entered Peters' room to clean it, she found him hanging by his suspenders. Tattered and torn, he fell from the bed. When Mrs. Lightfoot cut the suspenders Peters fell unconscious to the floor. He left several letters directing the Coroner whom to notify. There was another letter, addressed to the maid, which the bride was radiantly happy.

Director Mack Sennett of the Keystone finished the Barney Oldfield race film, "The Flying Horse," to say the least. The speed king plays a strong part and is the one big feature, but the work of Miss Mabel Normand, Mack Sennett and Fred Sterling is doing service.

The two Oliver children are a great attraction in Kalemcolor pictures.

The boy, a child of 5, has wonderful red hair which is very attractive in color pictures.

Despite his age, little Parker Oliver's picture appearance was what he was at three months of age he asserted on in a picture and laughed his merry way to early fame.

This happy mood is still one of his characteristics, but it does not prevent him doing serious work.

Oliver's other son, in black and white pictures, but with the Kalemcolor company he is fast becoming noted, not alone for his acting, but for his beautiful red hair; and spectators are becoming well acquainted with little red-headed "Cupid" Oliver.

The other Oliver child is a girl.

Though more serious than her brother, she is a clever little actress.

She has been playing in pictures practically all her life, in parts ranging from a tiny baby to a girl of 12, the popular child of a millionaire.

Georgia has been stolen by Gypsys, but she is not afraid, but she is a good actress. Her dolls and mud pies are as dear to her now as they were before she became a well-known real actress.

The Powers Players have just completed another beautiful juvenile picture in "The Girl Who Was a Girl," the bright star, Buster Edmunds, another one of the famous "Powers Girls" plays a strong part in this picture.

He appears as a well-tempered little city school boy and wins the hearts of the spectators.

For Oliver's misdeeds in school and is punished while the rival tried to tell on the little girl. The work of Joe Burks as the school teacher is quite clever.

Director Frank Montgomery is producing an attractive western picture, in which there is an abundance of sentiment, several battle scenes and an opportunity for members of the company to do some excellent acting.

If an eastern undertaker could have died in the great mass hall at Union City yesterday, he or she would have been satisfied at the number of humanity present. There were cowboys in full regalia, ladies in evening gowns, Confederate officers and soldiers, Indians, sailors, priests, cops, convicts, men in evening dress, automobile race drivers, jockeys and men of affairs.

Director Henry "Pathé" Lehrman of the Keystone completed the final scenes of a comedy bearing the title of "Friendly Neighbors" yesterday afternoon. Fred Mace and Dot Farley are on family and Joe Cogley is the husky husband of Laura Oakley, in the picture.

Again men roves in which bricks, but stea, furniture and cooking utensils find their way to the tops of various and sundry heads, a dynamite explosion makes all end well.

In one scene, the Pathé couple are fighting furiously and their wives were sent into the picture to join in the free-for-all. Miss Farley was to his Cogley with a stage punch and put him out, but when the time came, she planted a right kick on his map and he went down for the last count. He came up to play in the picture, but when the scene was finished, and he had stopped the hemorrhage of the nose, he said some things to the director and other members of the company who had laughed at him, and he would hardly look well in print.

"Winky" Ford of the Biograph has nothing to fear now. She handled the family car in a reckless manner and took a wheel of some other woman's machine. There was a damage suit, but a lawyer friend of the family took in the situation and the boy lit the across, and, on the following weekend, when the time came for the settlement, the lawyer's fee was the one dozen dainty Klemes.

Rubbing It In.

[London Opinion] A septuagenarian said one evening at dinner to his fair young wife:

"My darling, I have just incurred my first loss of £20,000."

"Oh, you duck!" the beautiful girl cried, and, rising and passing round the table, she kissed her husband lightly on his bald head.

"Darling," he said, taking her slim white hand, "is there anything else I can do for you?"

"Oh, you duck!" the earthy girl answered, and, rising and passing round the table, she kissed her husband lightly on his bald head.

MANT VALLEY BIRDS.

Residents of the Imperial Valley, the season reported at the sporting thousands of ducks and geese in the valley and that they were doing a great deal of damage to the grain.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY.

MY LETTER writing friends are at it again. All kinds of correspondence on a wide variety of subjects from the drama to advice to the lovebirds. Now just to save any young ladies' time who want to get advice of the Laura Jean Libby type, address your letters to the sporting house.

One of the letters comes from a member of the "Naughty Marietta" company now appearing at the Majestic Theater in which he or she, as it may be, represents the attitude of certain local reviewers.

The writer particularly resents one of the reviewers taking occasion to mention in his criticism, if that is what it may be called, that there are at present at least seven companies playing the Victor Herbert piece.

He says he is anxious to know the source of this brilliant young individual's information as it is absolutely incorrect. In that I quite agree, for "Naughty Marietta" has never been played by more than three companies and the other companies appearing at the Majestic happen to be the only one presenting "Naughty Marietta," from which Mr. Hammerstein is getting any money.

There may be others, but if so they are pirates. But why, interested one may ask me the letter, is it pretty sure to snare up the shortstop's job, and he is way come to it as far as Olson is concerned.

NO USE TO STEAL.

Ivan had little opportunity to display his speed on the bases last season.

Batting second and just ahead of Jackson and LaJoie he had no excuse for failing to do his share, for the times when he is liable to drive a man home from first on the slightest provocation.

He proved his speed to the satisfaction of all concerned while in the Coast League. Playing with Hutchinson in 1905 he pilfered sixty-eight hits, finishing with a .365 average. His .365 mark is the same league record.

Olson is ready and aggressive, but tractable. He is fully satisfied with the treatment accorded him by French.
